SPECTRUM

We the amateurs are grateful to the professionals in the yearbook field who have helped us put this book together. The cooperation of "Hermie", Helen, Dorothy, and Mr. Hauschner at Daguerre Studios has meant a great deal. Their prompt delivery of pictures helped us meet those vital deadlines. The splendid work and advice of Bob Engle, Mr. Al Gage and Mr. Motherway at Pontiac Engravers have given us a book of good quality. The splendid service of Rogers Printing Company speaks for itself. The cooperation of Mr. Cooley at the Molloy Cover Company has given us a unique and durable cover for the 1944 Spectrum. To all of these we say "Thanks—it was a pleasure and a privilege to work with you!"

College Life at North Central

FOREWORD

This book is built around a phrase that summarizes the best aspects of college life. It is, "You Can Take It With You." The worthwhile, wholesome, and, wonderful parts of college will be remembered and cherished. The valuable experiences of today will not perish in the uncertain world of tomorrow. Instead, they will live, grow, and be passed on to others as North Central students leave their school days behind and go out to meet life, apply their knowledge, and be of service to the world.

College is an experience that becomes a part of you. The knowledge acquired, the memories of good times, the efforts to get along with people are all a part of days here at North Central. This Spectrum is a record of those days which "You Can Take With You" in memory, in spirit, in person!

The senior class, including those who are now in the armed service, presents this book to you with its best wishes.

TO OUR MEN IN SERVICE

There is a star shaped shadow on the tower of Old Main. That star is symbolic of all of North Central's men in the armed services. While we here at school have been working and enjoying all the benefits of a free country, they have been training for and facing war. Because of their battles, struggles, and bloodshed, we have been able to continue our school life in a peaceful and democratic atmosphere. They have fought so that we might live and learn. As this school year closes we can take with us the knowledge of the vital role that they have played in our school life.

A light from the tower of Old Main shines on the service flag. This beam is symbolic of the values of North Central which its service men took with them as they marched off to war. No matter where they are or what they are doing, they still carry a part of North Central with them. They remember the good, happy college experiences. N. C. C. plays a vital role in keeping up their morale and in giving life true values.

We dedicate the 1944 Spectrum to North Central's men in the armed services. We are grateful to them for their efforts which have given us another year of peace at school in a free America. We also wish to tell them in this, our meager way, that they still are an important part of North Central.

“You

The torch of learning is our symbol of knowledge. The chaos and conflict which cast a gloom across civilization cannot extinguish the light of learning. So long as there are students with alert, eager minds and instructors with wisdom and experience, nothing can ever black out the burning torch that has become the chief possession of thinking people. North Central students are grateful to their instructors for sharing this torch with them and giving them a challenge to think. This light burns on and you can take it with you!

ADMINISTRATION

DR. RALL

This year has not meant just another round of routine duties for Dr. Rall, President of North Central. He has been confronted with new problems and responsibilities during this "college as unusual" term.

When Uncle Sam selected schools for his A.S.T.P. Units, North Central was among them. New duties demanded attention: Bolton Hall, Kaufman Hall, and a part of the Merner Field House had to be converted into barracks; it was necessary to secure more instructors; living quarters had to be found for the women who had formerly lived in the dormitories; the basement of Johnson Hall had to be made into a cafeteria. It took tireless effort to accomplish all that! However, the cooperation of the faculty under the leadership of Dr. Rall did accomplish it—North Central was equipped to accommodate and instruct Army Specialized Training Men when they arrived on campus in August.

It has also been a terrific job to keep North Central moving along with that "as usual" air in spite of a decreased enrollment and the "subject to change" status of most civilian men at school. However, Dr. Rall has carried on with his usual persistence in keeping North Central in good standing. He has also taken great pains to keep up with the regulations of numerous draft boards which have been A-1 factors in determining the courses of theological, pre-med, chemistry, and engineering students.

The annals of educational tradition at North Central will not add this year to the records as just another typical year. It has been a new experience—Dr. Rall has done much toward making it a successful one.

"You

The pursuit of knowledge is not just a game that we play today and forget tomorrow. It is a process of learning, achieving, and maturing. You CAN take it with you! The power of knowledge, the satisfaction of knowing, the desire to learn, and the ability to think clearly give the individual a sense of equilibrium and an "at home" feeling in the universe. You do not have to go out to conquer worlds, make a million, or win fame in order to apply a college education. It is useful in a very ordinary life—serving society by doing some job well, understanding fellow human beings, facing responsibilities. All of these call for applied education. No matter where you go or how many "hard knocks" you get, your education will stay with you—it will be one of your most faithful and best friends. You Can Take It With You!

SENIOR CLASS

What will the seniors take with them besides their knowledge, friendships, and memories? Their ability "to take it," of course.

When the class of '44 was a group of bashful, backward, and humble freshmen, the question was put to them frankly—"Can you take it, frosh? Are you good sports about your green caps? Can you take all the assignments and prove that you are of college calibre? Do your athletes have school spirit?" The year passed. The frosh proved that they could take it.

The sophomore year meant a reiteration of the question. Work was harder, everybody razzed the "sophs" because they were still backward. They kept plodding along though. They didn't complain—they could take it!

The role as upper-classmen presented a challenge too. An excellent junior-senior banquet proved that as juniors, the class was doing all right. Then came the call of the E.R.C. The junior fellows who were in the call just said "so long" until the day when they planned on coming back!

As seniors—can they take it? Those who are in the service prove that they can. The seniors at school have managed to have a successful year in spite of the war. All seniors can take with them the motto—"We can take it!"

JUNIOR CLASS

When the class of '45 returned to the campus this fall, there was a "something is missing" feeling among its members. There was a lot of talk and interest about the class members who were in the service. However, those who did return to school felt that it was their duty to carry on.

Big achievement of the year was the "truce" with the class of '44. Instead of burying it this year the juniors just buried the hatchet and invited the seniors to the traditional junior-senior banquet. Not only was the dinner at the Baker Hotel good but the atmosphere of the rainbow room with its smooth glass floor gave a glamorous touch to the whole affair.

Distinction didn't pass the juniors by either. Three girls (Doris Gamertsfelder, Betty Magenheimer, and Syb Russell Beebe) were elected to Honor Society. Carol Preston was selected to have her name appear in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. The junior girls walked away with the honors in the soccer tournament again!

Although this year has been different from the first two glorious and carefree years with their informal parties, "red cords", shaved heads, and interesting displays of class spirit, the juniors have managed to keep alive that glow which has always characterized the class of '45.

I've now completed training and expect to be traveling through some other countries soon. Of course, I'm looking forward to the time I'll be back at North Central with the rest of the class of '44. Everything out here is going as well as it can but a fellow kinda misses the luxuries of home. The soldiers here will make good wives for someone. They wash clothes, sew, do K.P., make beds, and do a number of other women's jobs!

SOPHOMORE CLASS

If it weren't for censors, much could be said about the saphamores. Oh for a chance to philosophize about these "hyper-ambitious" individuals. But the censors are the sophamores themselves and they are too much on the job to permit even any "between the lines" inferences. So, we'll just conform to their wishes and say only a few things.

The easiest way to sum up the antics of the members of the class of '46 is to say—if there is anything that has never been done before and that is sure never to be done again, the sophamores will do it!

An apt illustration of their ingenuity is an incident which occurred last fall. One mild night they all sneaked around in old overalls, climbed to the heating plant roof in some miraculous way (maybe it was their wings) and gave the chimney its first and only "paint or white wash job." Only, only the "saphs" would do that!

They have more than enough spunk. Not even a trip into the roaring DuPage could dampen their spirits. Their men in service all do their best for victory. Well, even when the censors are reading over our shoulders, we can still say that the saphamores, above all people, will have rare memories to take with them!

FRESHMAN CLASS

This year's freshmen, no longer meek and mild, turned the tables on the upper-classmen.

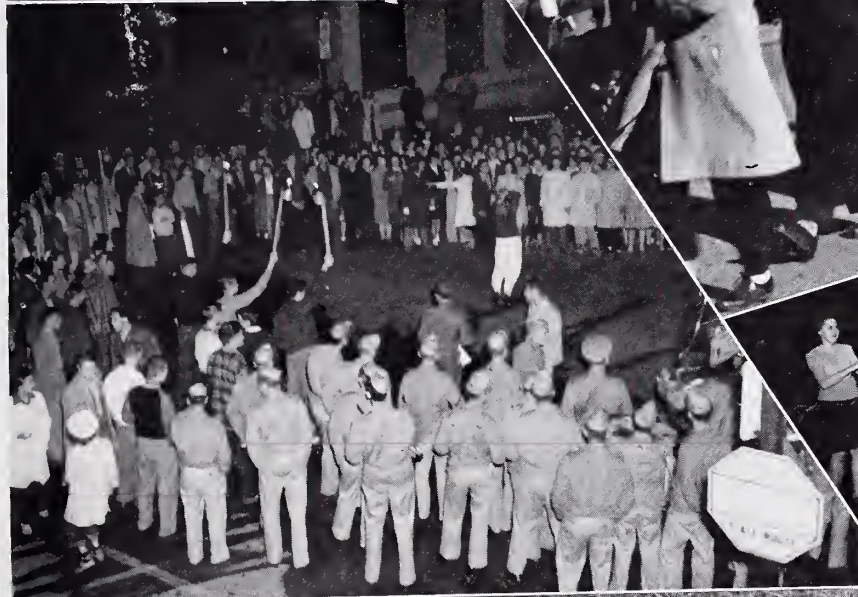

On the first day of registration the enrollment count showed that the freshmen made up half of the entire student body. Then in the tug-o-war the class of '47 scored a triumph in about thirty seconds and left the sophomore team to sink or swim in the waters of the "roaring DuPage."

But, speaking of swimming—a few of the bolder spirits who spurned the traditional green caps were persuaded to take an unpremeditated dip in the Heather-ton Pool.

Homecoming relieved them of the wearing of the green and gave them the opportunity of proving their skill in other ways. Even the sophomores had to admit that their Homecoming Bonfire was the hottest thing on the campus; and as for the sack race—well, they had the victory in the bag!

Yes, the class of '47 seemed likely to conquer the world until exams! That did it, that humbled 'em. However, they survived and gallantly went out to meet the challenge of a second semester at college. As the school year concludes, the class of '47 is not just a big group of nonentities and "freshie" grins. It is a class of individuals with a status on campus and a store of experiences about a first year at college.

“You

May we present Suzy? She is standing at your left. Her full name is "Suzy College". She is portraying the role of the average liberal arts student who has an educational set-up that is balanced. Some condemn the "little bit of everything" curriculum but she defends it. Her idea is that the varied program of the liberal arts school means VERSATILITY with REVERBERATIONS!

VERSATILE—that's you. At 7:45 you race up two flights of stairs for a session with Chaucer or Shakespeare; then you stroll over to "chem lab" for a "qual" class. Afterwards you might listen to recordings of Greig's concertos at Pfeiffer or perhaps retreat to the art lab to dabble in oil paint. Then you trek down to the fieldhouse for a track work-out or a game of volleyball. That proves your versatility!

The REVERBERATIONS? They'll come tomorrow. Your business associates will enjoy hearing about "the time I almost blew up the chemistry lab." You won't have to feign an appreciation of concert music just to please your date. You will be able to talk about Hegel, Darwin, or Mozart. Your versatile program has reverberations in store for you. The balanced education—you CAN take it with you!

GOLDSPOHN

Goldspohn, a hall of scientific endeavor and achievement, is the place where Bill Beher, senior, has spent many hours of toil. He and other students like him have arduously conducted tedious experiments and mastered a fund of scientific facts in their search for truths about the universe. One word has guided them and brought them success in their toil. It is "Work". The role of the scientist is not an easy one but he who is willing to work hard does reap his reward!

CHAPEL CHOIR

Every guest speaker in chapel usually has a private quiz about the "group in the balcony". His eyes look upward and you can see him thinking—"Hum, who are those sixty people up there? Wonder what they do?"

Then comes a hymn or on "Amen" on the program. It is good to see the guest speaker's face brighten with understanding as you can see him thinking, "Of course, that's the Chapel Choir!" Just one note is enough to tell him that! Chapel Choir voices have something that those on floor number one don't have. There's polish, power, and perfection in voices from the upper story. The polish is a result of practice every Tuesday evening; the power and perfection can be attributed to Prof. Pinney's ability at choir conducting. Guest speakers and college students alike enjoy listening to the choir which gives our worship service a sacred background.

Those who sing in the choir chart up the experience as a memorable one. What choir member won't remember the time the choir and the professor were ready to do the response at the end of a chapel program when the organ failed to function? And then there was the day the hidden alarm clock went off during a particularly solemn moment. All of this represents chapel choir: the serious and the frivolous, the tragedy of a response poorly done, the satisfaction of a difficult one so safely completed. Although Prof. Pinney has a difficult time selecting members for the choir by try-outs in the fall, he always manages to select a group of which N. C. C. can be proud.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

In this year of tricks on traditions, North Central's Men's Glee Club appears to be different. In days of yore the group was featured in the book as one of the largest campus organizations. All the basses, baritones, and tenors decked out in formal attire for a very formal picture. In previous years the men worked long and hard in preparation for the annual Spring concert.

This year there have been some changes made. Here you see the club as an informal little group gathered around the Pfeiffer Hall grand piano. Attire is simple, the pomp and formality of former years are lacking. Yet, the voices represented are good. Although it was quite impossible to have the annual Spring Concert, the men did do a fine job of singing at the chapel program which they presented.

However, queries are probably buzzing about, "Why such a small group?" The answer is in the background of the picture. See that star up there in the right hand corner of the service flag? Well, that's for Joe. Yes, Joe, the guy who has the smoothest baritone you would ever want to hear. You did hear it last year and he did an especially good job in the "rush-up" concert last Spring. Then there were many Jacks and Bobs and Bills and Dons in Glee Club last year who are also represented in the service flag. Instead of singing in the club, they croon their barrack buddies to sleep or whistle the chorus of "Shoulder to Shoulder" as they are out drilling or marching along a road.

Don't believe your eyes. Men's Glee Club really isn't little. It is far more than the handful of fellows whom you see pictured. True, they are the nucleus of the group; they are the proof of the fact that there is a Men's Glee Club at North Central. Yet, somewhere in the Pacific, in Africa, in Italy, in England, in every theatre of war can be found some Men's Glee Club member. Men's Glee Club isn't small—it is represented in every corner of the earth!

ARTISTS AT WORK

“You

Extra-curricular activities enhance the value of college. They give color to a dull day. Once the bug for extra-curricular life bites, you no longer can be satisfied with being just a book worm! Book knowledge alone is not enough. Extra-curricular life teaches one to work with others, to crowd new activities into his days, to use leisure time wisely. All of this means a better you and richer memories of college days.

A little reminiscing fortifies this idea about "richer memories." Will you ever forget the thrill you had the time the Glee Club sang at Orchestra Hall? Or, maybe you recall a particular track meet and the way you ran so hard that everything went black for a while. Perhaps your fondest memory is of a debate trip—the swanky hotel, the new friends you made, the fun you had debating! Whatever your activities have been, you are sure to have memories—good, solid, interesting memories that you can take with you!

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Spectrum bookcase is a voice box of tradition and time-honored organizations. It can talk about parties or classes or people or things. Somewhere within its bound volumes a voice whispers; it becomes louder; it speaks!

"North Central today has a high type of Student Council which is the medium of student opinion in all matters." These words come from the 1928 Spectrum. (Dr. Haag was editor then).

"The three-fold purpose of our student self-government is to maintain a high standard of student body decorum, to provide means of expression for student opinion, and to enable students themselves to regulate all matters not strictly academic." This phrase is from the 1924 Spectrum.

"The Student Council is filling a great need and that is becoming more firmly established each year." This sentence is from the 1923 Spectrum.

The voice of the bookcase speaks of the wealth of tradition and determination in back of our student government. The voice from the Spectrum typewriter acknowledges that truth and wishes to add a few words. In 1943-44 the Student Council has played a vital role just as it has since the day when it was created in 1919. This year it has carried out its traditional tasks and also assumed new responsibilities.

The Student Council promoted the big events of the school year which are underscored on the activity calendar: Homecoming, College Day, and the activities of the first week of school. It also assumed responsibility for electing editors and business managers of the school publications, student-comptroller, chairmen for Homecoming, War Council Chairman, etc.

New duties have helped adjust the campus to its war-time basis. Representatives from the A. S. T. P. have helped out in this respect.

Soon the voice of the typewriter will be another voice in the bookcase as it joins the chorus which speaks of the value of student government at North Central.

WAR COUNCIL

It is hoped that this organization will not be in existence next year. Perhaps na year-boak has ever said that before. However, we say it in all sincerity because when the war is over the War Council can close up shop and call it quits! But, until that "shining hour", North Central's War Council will continue daing its bit and best to help out in the war effort.

In the final analysis "bit" is a lat. Modern warfare makes many demands which this council has tried to answer. Callege students as well as defense warkers must buy bonds and defense stamps if the war is going to be financed. Unlike defense workers, though, most college students don't have big pay checks. Cansequently the council has had to put an the pressure to promote bond and stamp sales.

The business of keeping the service men's honor roll up-to-date is also ane big job. It takes pains, patience, and perseverance to keep track of the changes of address and rank of North Central soldiers, sailars, marines, and flyers.

A blood drive daesn't automatically meet with a big respanse of daners. People—even callege students—have to be convinced af the value af giving blood and af the dire necessity far it. That takes explanations and propa-ganda; that represents anather very warthy task af the council.

Students wha have spent their hard earned cald cash for books don't give them up just because af a feeble request to help the W.S.S.F. ar the prisoners of war. They must be made to see the need which faces hungry minds. Then they will be generous.

The War Council is North Central's means of bringing the war home. It has kept students mindful af the needs and demands af modern warfare which they tao must feel responsible far. When the war is over the War Council can quit but until then it will keep on daing its best to help hasten the day of final victory.

STUDENT FINANCE

No organization in school has such lavish funds as the Student Finance Board! But, no campus club has as many places to put its money as the finance committee. The $16,000 which it gets from the student activity fees calls for wise budgeting and careful corner-turning if every organization is going to receive adequate funds. Some of the activities which receive appropriations are: athletics, farsenic, lectures and concerts, musical and dramatic organizations, Student Council, The College Chronicle, Spectrum, Cardinal, all-colleges social committee, and the four college classes.

STUDENT UNION

"You've got it! Now, treat it right!" If the Student Union Board of Control were out motto hunting, it undoubtedly would select the "You've got it! Now, treat it right!" slogan. This board exists for the purpose of seeing to it that no student violates the rules which have been set up for the student union room. The big and successful campaign for "Union Now" gave the campus the splendid lounge and recreation room. The board of control is determined that those beautiful rooms will be treated with the proper respect because students worked so hard to secure them for the campus.

STUDENT AFFILIATES

If formulas (long formulas) intrigue you, you will like this one—NCCCoSAoTACS! Don't swoon, for that is not any abstract, impossible "unknown". It is just an abbreviation for "North Central College Chapter of Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society" (you can breathe now!) That's the name for one of the most progressive and highly esteemed scientific organizations on campus. Its membership is limited to chemistry or chemical engineering majors who have been nominated for membership by the two chemistry instructors and who are also in good (B) scholastic standing. Although seventy-five or eighty colleges in the United States have similar organizations, North Central can boast of having the only student affiliate chapter in the State of Illinois.

Student affiliates means action and opportunities for its members. The chance to attend national meetings, the opportunity to meet some of the most outstanding leaders of the chemical profession, the incentive the organization gives to maintaining highest possible scholastic standing are all part of the "take it with you" quality which makes it a genuine privilege to be a member of NCCCoSAoTACS. Student affiliates today will be leading scientists tomorrow.

BETA BETA BETA

Walk up to Mr. or Miss Average college student and say, "Batanos, Boudetose, Boax". You will get a dirty look!

Tap ye ordinary student on the shoulder and say, "Beta, Beta, Beta!" You will get a skeptical look!

Approach one of the outstanding students of the biological science department, say those same words and you will receive a smile of recognition. Instead of looking perplexed when you say "Batanos, Boudetose, Boax," that "best of the biologists" will echo in your ear, "An acorn, a little bird, a fish!" The words "Beta Beta Beta" will bring the reply, "Life on the ground, in the air, and in the water."

If your Beta Beta Beta buddy finds you rather bored he might surprise you by singing a verse of Hubert Fring's song, "Drosophila, Drosophila" to the tune of "Funiculi, Funiculi".

"Some think flies were created to be swatted,
And so do I, and so do I.

Some think that flies to burn should be allotted,
And so do I, and so do I.

But I, I breed these verminiferous "critters,"
To count their brats, to count their brats."

However, in case you might be in the mood for serious talk, the Beta Beta Beta member can give you plenty of that too! He will tell you that the basic purpose of this organization is to stimulate sound scholarship, to disseminate scientific knowledge, and promote biological knowledge. That will naturally lead to a discussion of the bi-monthly meetings which sparkle with enthusiasm for the latest medical discoveries and achievements. Beta Beta Beta is music to the ears of biological students who were selected for membership on the basis of their general scholarship and specific ability in this field. Beta Beta Beta is North Central's society for those who regard a study of organic life as one of the most vital and interesting studies known.

Society isn't all twentieth century polish and refinement. It's as hard to figure out as "Peck's Bad Boy!" States battle, people strike or steal or starve, culture surpasses man's ability to keep up with it. Society is a headache! So, some merely turn to the funnies and proceed to forget their troubles while society can go hang!

Some don't though. They say, "Let's do something about it!" Stand-bys in this group are North Central's members of the honorary national social science organization, Pi Gamma Mu. They do a considerable amount of talking and thinking about problem-child society at their monthly meetings.

In order to qualify for membership in this honorary group a student must have a B scholastic standing and have a major in philosophy, psychology, commerce, history, sociology, economics, or political science. He also must have completed at least 20 hours in any one of these fields in order to be eligible for membership. With requirements like these to meet it is no wonder that the members rank among the best students on campus and take genuine interest in discussing rather than merely feeling disgusted with society.

Another outstanding feature of Pi Gamma Mu is the fact that at least half of the members are faculty members who become affiliated with the group when they were students at North Central. Also a number of seminory students are active members in the organization.

Pi Gamma Mu is an active group. Meetings are filled with scholarly discussions and genuine interest in society. Frequently the group refers to Social Science, the official Pi Gamma Mu magazine. North Central's chapter also carries on joint meetings with chapters from other colleges in this area. This year marks Pi Gamma Mu's twentieth year of existence at North Central. It is a leading honorary organization which sees society not just as a headache but as something which merits thought, interest, and discussion.

SIGMA TAU DELTA

"It's not bad, but it can't be called literary—needs more polish, a better style."

"That may be true, but the idea behind it and the angle from which it's presented is clever and original."

The above dialogue is an example of the literary dissection which goes on at Sigma Tau Delta meetings. The manuscripts which each member brings to the monthly meetings are given a thorough going-over, the good and bad features are pointed out and suggestions are made for their improvement. While these sessions may sound brutal to beginning writers, they really are not. The criticism is always helpful and never bitter. The object of such criticism is to inspire the author to express himself better, to enable him to know his weak points and overcome them, and in general give him the objective viewpoint of disinterested persons who are capable of good criticism. The society furnishes a proving ground for literary talent, and the final test comes when some of the work is accepted for publication in The Rectangle, the quarterly collection of the best writings of the organization. Several of our efforts have been printed, much to the pride of the North Central chapter. The motto of Sigma Tau Delta is "Sincerity, Truth, and Design" which the members try to keep in mind at all times in their writing. Their aim is perfection in these three ideals.

The national organization was founded at Dakota Wesleyan University in 1924 and Sigma Gamma, North Central's chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, was organized in 1931. To become a member of this honorary English fraternity, a student must be an English major and have a B average in all subjects.

Besides the regular monthly meetings the group this year saw the musical comedy "Okla-homa".

Lois Grote, president; Dorothy Heinrich, vice-president; Betty Magenheimer secretary; Malcolm McClenaghan, treasurer; have been the officers this year.

FRENCH CLUB

Parlez-vous françois? Oui? Venez ou cercle françois and "parlez" to your heart's content. Do you know what "je t'aime" and "embrassez moi" mean? No doubt you do in English, but if you know their meaning in French, it's the French Club for you. There you learn to carry on actual conversations without which no language can really be learned. And no one in the club has such linguistic ability as to speak so rapidly that a novice can't understand. Anyone who knows some French and has an interest in learning to speak it fluently can become a member.

To prove that complete mastery of the language is not a prerequisite for joining the club, you should listen to some of the conversations: "Ah, er-comment allez-vous aujourd'hui? I mean ce soir? Très bien? Good! No-er-bon! Et moi? Diab! (under the breath, of course) what's the French for "pretty good"? Ah, comme-ci, comme-co." It's a strange mixture of French and English, but each meeting brings you one step nearer perfection. And it's quite stimulating, mentally, to have to search around in the dim, dark recesses of your mind for those idioms you supposedly learned at one time and to be able to drag them out triumphantly and amaze your colleagues.

The French Club was organized this year under the leadership of Mlle. Bleck, head of the French department. The officers elected were Aileen Hostetter as president, Audrey Boyer as vice-president, Phyllis Stump as secretary, and Dwight Busacca as treasurer. The meetings are held once a month and the business is carried on entirely in French. Someone recites a poem or a dialogue is given and anecdotes are read. Then there are games and songs like "Frère Jacques" and "Au Clair de la Lune."

Le Francois Cercle is a good combination of work and play. It teaches just as the class in French teaches. Yet, it has an informal and "guess at the word" air which makes it fun to talk French just for the sake of talking it. It is one very fine opportunity to tease the vocal chords into persuading the tongue to do strange and interesting talk in a foreign tongue.

ALPHA PSI OMEGA

Alpha Psi Omega is an campus organization that thrives on plenty of action. There's never a dull moment when Alpha Psi Omegans have a play brewing.

A quick "behind the scenes" glance proves why N. C. C.'s amateur actors and actresses enjoy their dramatic activity. Remember Magnificent Obsession? Alpha Psi Omegans were in back of it 100%. They "pep talked" many timid seniors into helping out back stage or into trying out far parts. Many a time the lights in the workshop burned far into the night while Hunsie and the cast drilled hard spats of the play. It gave everyone a sense of achievement to conquer an especially hard line or to pitch a scream just right at a time correctly claps of thunder or screeches of brakes.

Drama is a job but people who "go far it" enjoy it. They classify a race up four flights of stairs for a cue rehearsal promptly at four as good experience and exercise. They would be disappointed at a dress rehearsal that isn't hectic and one grand headache. The task of painting scores of flats is their idea of necessary bad medicine as a pre-requisite for good scenery. The thrill on the night of The performance compensates for their hours of labor, worry, and memorization. Drama is fun to Alpha Psi Omegans!

Drama is fun to a North Central audience too, because many of the dramatically inclined have entertained their audiences with characterizations that are unique. Jack Stedman takes the prize for his authentic "little old man" portrayals. Ema Lou is champion of the alert and peppy little girl roles. Al Ebert holds the distinction of being outstanding as the dignified business man. Jane Shockey and Dick Mahlman stand out for their character roles while Dat Heinrich ranks as one of the most paired of N. C.'s dramatic society.

PI KAPPA DELTA

If there is anything worse than a beautiful woman without a mirror, it is a debate squad without a tournament to attend. Although North Central has a very active speech department, there has been a slight slump in activities of the forensic world this season. That's not any reflection on the Pi Kappa Delta members though. Since most schools have been hard hit by the draft, there have been fewer tournaments. Gas rationing added to the plight also called for a curtailment of speech activities.

North Central debaters have adapted to the new situation quite well. Some took to talking in their sleep or debating with their roommates just to keep in practice. Others actually devoted their spare time to reading the quarterly Pi Kappa Delta publication which national headquarters publishes. A few decided to read behind and beyond the headlines in order to get their own interpretations of the news. North Central debaters have sustained and strengthened their interest in the affairs of international politics.

The big trip of the year was the tournament at Whitewater, Wisconsin on February 11th and 12th. Intensive study just before the tournament brought its rewards. "Stevie" made finals in extemporaneous speaking. The debate teams won on the average of three out of five debates—not a bad score at all!

The issue which the debaters have filled their file cards about is, Resolved that: "The United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an International Police Force upon the defeat of the Axis." Although neither the affirmative nor the negative managed to show up with the best points, both sides concluded that they were very grateful for the opportunity of stimulating their thoughts about this important issue which will be very significant in the post-war world.

Y M C A

In spite of unpredictable draft boards, the Y. M. C. A. cabinet has managed to be as efficient as usual. It's "big brother" service for "frosh" fellows was very helpful. Religious Emphasis week with guest speaker, Dr. Mueller, provoked thought. International Institute week aroused interest in W. S. S. F. This year the Y. M. C. A. has met the challenge to war-time Christian leadership very well. Its schedule has been full and successful.

College women at North Central have an opportunity for the finest kind of Christian fellowship under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Whether it is giving a gift to a "heart sister" or serving on a committee does not matter—the basic value is that a woman is given the opportunity to start thinking unselfishly and to begin judging happiness in terms of serving others.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

Student Volunteers on North Central's campus is a group of nearly fifty students who meet regularly on Sunday mornings at the First Evangelical Church for services of inspiration and devotion, usually devoted to missionary subjects. Its chief aim is to promote interest and activity in missionary work. Deputation work, as well as some social activities, are also included in the program of the organization.

ZOOLOGY

The best way to understand a zoology student is to go to Zoo club after the meeting has adjourned. Conversation runs something like this—"Hey, Joe, got your cray fish dissected yet? What I'm looking forward to, though, is the grasshopper dissection—that ought to be fun!" That's the way the enthusiastic zoo students talk; that's the kind of enthusiasm that makes zoo club click!

HOME EC

Anyone can serve an "out of the can" dinner. Anyone can buy an outfit. But it takes training and skill to prepare an attractive, tasty, home-cooked meal; it takes understanding to know how to buy or make an attractive outfit. Therefore, Home Economics Club members recognize the value of the cooking demonstrations and ideas for clothing construction they get at their monthly meetings.

COMMERCE CLUBS

Dame Fortune just grinned. There were many statistics but nobody had any really "inside dope" about Commerce Club. Then, fortunately, a commerce student strolled into the office. Sure, he knew all about it—"This informative and interesting club gives commerce students an opportunity to discuss business and economic problems and to hear about the experiences of men who are doing work in the field!"

HISTORY

The past is interesting—especially to members of the History Club. On one Wednesday evening each month they push their contemporary affairs into a corner and dash off for an informal confab about personalities and events of the past! Book reports, discussions, and some of Dr. Attig's humorous insights and interpretations make this organization a valuable activity for North Central's historically minded!

Seated: Ebert, Knoespel, Johnson, Attig, R., King, Prof. Attig, Sengalaub.
Standing: Keidel, Fairbrother, Kapitan, Hack, Moede, Thom, Arndt.

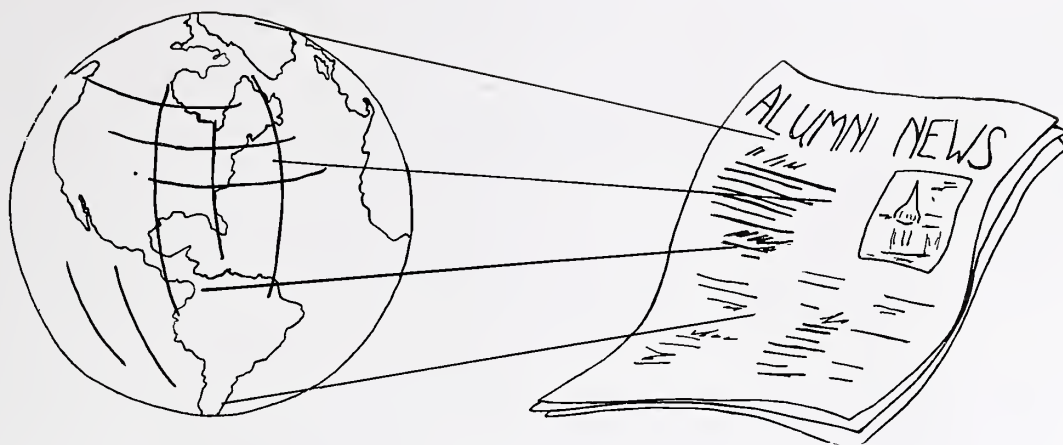

This board doesn't meet often, but its role is a continuous one of ironing out publication problems. The faculty advisors are interested primarily in seeing to it that the chiefs of campus publications do their job while staying within the budget! That sounds simple, but it isn't. Budgets are so unpredictable, editors and business managers can so easily become negligent. So, the advisors help keep them on their toes. The business managers have to persuade people to buy ads and to discourage the editors from getting any fantastic and expensive ideas. The editors merely spend their time trying to keep up with their school work, make their staffs work and still turn out acceptable publications.

Howard, Prof. White, Preston, Dr. Haag, Venard, Hubmer, Kerr, Ogborn.

ALUMNI NEWS

It was an opportune mament. The telephone wasn't jangling, there wasn't the usual scare of students in Miss Reik's affice with their innumerable list of questions. It was an ideal time to get the "info" about a very important publication, The Alumni News.

This quarterly publication, which is edited by Miss Reik during her "spare" maments, travels to every carner of the glabe to take news about N. C. C. to approximately 24,000 people. Even in normal peace times it goes to India, China, and Africa where North Central men and wamen are in missionary service.

Today, though, the Alumni News has added significance. It means news about schaal, friends back hame, and friends in the service, to approximately 600 North Centralites in Natianal service. Many an Alumni News has ta travel thousands of miles across deserts, mountains and bodies of water. But, when it does reach its destination it means genuine maments of pleasure far its readers. Perhaps as you are reading these wards same N. C. C. grad ar farmer student who has just returned to his barracks after a hard day is en-jaying his Alumni News which brings back ta him fand memaries of days spent here.

MISS REIK

Miss Reik, Dr. Rall's secretary, never has a dull mament. Routine affice duties and the Alumni News keep her plenty busy. Mast unique af her other duties is the task af answering the questions af many students about everything fram "Is there a green fauntain pen in the last and found?" to "Haw do I fill out a petitian?"

You can take it with you! Yes, along with the memories of the various high points and low spots, the happy, carefree moments and the more serious occasions, the students may well reserve a place in their book of memories for the College Chronicle. Webster has defined chronicle as an historical record of events, and truly the staff of writers and workers of all kinds have worked, and worked hard, in order to make the Chronicle of 1943-44 one that will be remembered for years to come. There have been trials and hardships which have confronted not only the editor but also the rest of his staff, and now that the history of the school year has been written it may be said of the College Chronicle that many of the feature stories, campus news items, regular columns, editorials, and sports articles will remain in the minds of those who read them and have made an indelible impression upon their very lives.

Regardless of whether or not the separate issues of the Chronicle have been set aside as souvenirs, the statement may be made in reference to the ideals and standards of the paper that 'you can take it with you'.

CARDINAL

The living room at the "White House" with its comfortable chairs and stone fireplace is a temple in disguise. Here gather the student worshippers of the ancient arts—prose and poetry, the powerful influences that have tempered men's minds and hearts. The students bring their literary offerings to be read within the friendly circle. Ferne Hack, this year's active president, then leads a discussion in which the selection is generously criticized as to style, content, and effect. Prof. White adds his more mature judgment and supplements the discussion with facts and suggestions. Some poems have inspired eloquent comments on such subjects as truth and morality. From this group activity, selections for the Cardinal, N. C. literary magazine, are made. Watching student response to the various poems, essays, short stories is an excellent way to determine what is good Cardinal material. This year's Writer's Club includes members of the A. S. T. P. unit (in addition to regular students and alumnae) who have contributed some prose efforts as well as pertinent comments.

This year's officers have been very active. President Ferne Hack brought several outside speakers who are professional writers. They gave helpful hints to the eager beginners. Frances Fontana served religiously as secretary-treasurer. Under her guidance a publicity committee, composed of Helen Miller, Virginia Pease, Helen Zulas, made announcement posters and wrote up the club meetings for the Chronicle.

You have all of 151 pages to “crab about” and criticize. But this, my franze, is our page! It is devoted to all good staff members who have done their best to give you another yearbook.

The unique feature about any yearbook is the fact that it is put together on “special” time. You have to beg, borrow, and even steal that time from studies, sleep, and fun. You have to live from deadline to deadline, be brave when things go wrong, and be willing to do a lot for a little compensation. People who have done that deserve much credit and applause—this is their page!

Many thanks go to Bernie Wahl for his excellent picture mounting; Herbie Gamertsfelder for her splendid division page drawings and clever ideas; John Beher, Dave Rall, Carl Hornberger, and John Munger for photography work; Doris Sundquist, Lois Sommer, Dorothy Bernhardt, Lois Kasch, Lucy Rowe, Anita Harrell, Marian Augustine, Ema Lou Kellogg, Margaret McDowell for typing; Slick Rudolph for sports write-ups; Ruth Grandlienard, Evelyn Venard, Freddie Kirn for copy writing; Donna Wilkening for helping in innumerable ways; Betty Zorn and Florence Sommer for art work. “You

It would be a gross understatement to call the athletic section slender or thin or streamlined.

If it is possible to speak of literary things as undernourished, you might call it one of the saddest starvation diets of sports ever set to print. In spite of the lean appearance though, your tolerance and ability to read between the lines will help.

Even if N. C. C. didn't have as full of a sports schedule as usual, the same appetite was there. This fall when the wind was brisk every Saturday was suggestive of the football spirit. Probably "Jake," "Big John," "Sookie," and all the rest of the senior football stars were thinking about the old football days just as we were.

When it was time for the basketball season, a splendid group of frosh and underclassmen rallied to the call and did some mighty fine playing.

Spring sports were also good. We made a good showing in tennis and baseball. The spirit of sports lives on!

FOOTBALL

The football spirit lives on at N.C.C.! Even though there was no team last fall, we give this game recognition in the Spectrum. Every man in the armed forces who has ever played football, every student who has ever watched this great game feels that we will not forget this favorite game of prowess and courage.

Here we pay tribute to this sport which has taught men to be good sports, has been the nucleus of school spirit and enthusiasm for years and which everybody missed this fall!

Fred Gillagly, (class of '40) who is now interned in a Prisoner of War Camp, Stalag Luft Na. 3 in Germany, steps from the football page of a former Spectrum for our tribute to the game of games. While in school he was a football star and won acclaim as a campus leader by being selected to be King Rex.

Before his internment in the war camp, he was awarded the cluster of three oak leaves in recognition of his achievements and courage. The old football spirit was up there with him in his plane; it is with him today in the prisoner of war camp; it is here, on this page, to assure us that the football spirit lives on at N.C.C.

BASKETBALL

With only one man returning from last year's basketball team and a coach too busy with all the army program to devote much time to coaching, the desirability of maintaining a team this year was debated. But it takes more than a man-power shortage to stop the spirit of N. C. C.

Eleven freshmen joined Don Riker, sophomore veteran of the squad, for a season of three victories and five defeats. The team was coached by last year's star forward, Tom Wedsworth.

North Central scored a total of 323 points over the eight game schedule, an average of 40.3 points per game, against an average of 47.8 points per game for their opponents. Dave Haebich was the leading scorer with 98 points for the season, averaging 12 points per game.

North Central contributed its share of top players of America's national pastime to the greater game which is being played against those forces which seek to destroy the freedom which makes baseball, the game of games, possible. However, as in many other sports, the game carried on successfully.

The Cardinals broke even over an eight game schedule with four victories and four defeats. A scheduled double-header with Wheaton was rained out.

The Wind Up!

The victories and defeats stacked up like this:

"You

Some phases of college can't easily be classified. You have one name for them, the fellow next door has another. Yearbooks compromise and use the simple name, "features." Call them what you will, they too belong to the mountain of memories that cannot be moved from the terra firma conscience of your mind, to the total experience which you can take with you!

This collection of specialized items is a homogenized group of typical collegiate activities. "A Study In Moods" expresses a few of the numerous frames of mind that school induces. "Whistle While They Work" lauds industrious scholars who find time to earn money, study, and still keep smilin'. "Courageous Commuters" are the perpetual motion crew of souls who can keep themselves busy rounding up the gang, going to classes late or just generally being enroute. Homecoming and May Fete are always subjects for featured thought. Letter writing, which has hit a new time high, now deserves special attention. Then, college life, the fun, the rare moments all belong to our featured section.

It is easy to say, "I can't afford to go to college!" It doesn't take any effort to prove that! It is equally as easy to say, "I can work my way through college!" But, it takes ambition and efficiency to prove that you can work your way through school.

North Central is proud of its "Whistle While They Work" students who not only go to school, which is a full time job in itself, but also find time to put in several hours a week earning money. Whether it is pushing a broom, selling hose, entertaining youngsters, toting trays, pounding a typewriter, or doing just odd jobs makes no difference. All students who work learn how to manage their time wisely.

Last year's file holds some astounding statistics about student workers. Approximately 65% (290) of the entire student body worked. Of the total, 129 had jobs here at school. The total earnings of all the students amounted to $50,110! You can work your way through college—you can take that experience with you!

COURAGEOUS COMMUTERS

No matter what great-grandfather has to say about "how we used to hike so many miles to school in the good ol' days", North Central's commuters can swap stories with him and tell a better one too! (No offense to great-grandfather!) Commuters perseveringly crawl out of bed at six bells, eat no breakfast, borge out to catch a 6:35 train or to join their sleepy comrades in a crowded car. In these days of rationed gas and tires, they doubly deserve to be called "courageous commuters".

HOMECOMING

This is Homecoming—a time when former graduates from all parts of the country wend their way to the scene of their school days, cheer again at the football field where they witnessed many Cardinal victories. This year the shadow over Old Main accounted for a smaller-than-usual gathering of alumni for the 26th annual Homecoming, held November 7.

Roger Beyler, chairman of the affair, was largely responsible for making the day as successful as those in the past. The NCC army unit provided a setting for flag raising and retreat and upheld the college tradition in a contest of touch-football against the Wheaton college unit. The army band furnished martial music for the parade, which featured the theme of holding the college houses until the boys return to take them over again.

Pvt. George St. Angela, former student body president, was able to be present and serve as toastmaster for the banquet, which was followed by a splendid performance of "Magnificent Obsession," by the senior class.

That was Homecoming, symbol of the spirit of NCC. You can take that with you too.

CORRESPONDENCE

COURSES

A letter means a lot these days! Any friendly, funny, interesting or simple epistle is an entertaining morale booster for all service men. Last fall all North Central fair ones filled out questionnaires giving general data about their correspondence files. The total number of service men to whom they write is 622: 292 of these are soldiers, 148 are sailors, 27 are marines, 4 are coast guards, 125 of the Army Air Corps, and 26 of the Navy Air Corps. As many as 171 of the total are out of the states. About 75 North Central men in the service hear from coeds back at the alma mater while the coeds correspond with 57 of their "kin" in the service. All North Central women have very interesting "correspondence courses" to remember!

MAY QUEEN

Hazel is one grand all around gal! Her friendly smile, scholastic attitude, and charming personality chartered her up to be our May Queen from the first day that she came to the campus. She is a royal beauty and personality who has been a real queen of the class of '44.

KING REX

Jake is a football star, a swell fellow, and one of the best all around B.M.O.C's. After completing his junior year he went to Bowling Green U. at Ohio where he took early Marine training. King Rex has not been around to reign his kingdom this year but he has been serving well as one of the Marines who will bring us certain victory.

COLLEGE DAY

College Day at North Central is a traditional day of open house and festivities for prospective students. Its high spot is the crowning of King Rex and Queen of the May.

FOREWORD

"Think To Win" was the motto which Uncle Sam's soldiers of the schoolroom strove to follow. N. C. C.'s Army Specialized Training men crammed an engineer's education into a few months of very hard toil. But in spite of the full schedules and steady grind, these fellows still had the time to make an impression upon the school that it won't forget. They gave the campus spirit and life, enthusiastically entertained at their big "Khaki Kapers" show, and looked at North Central from a new point of view. The heavy tread of their G. I. shoes on the steps of Old Main, the "Good Morning Professor Oliver" marching song, their between classes chats in the halls, and mad dashes to make bed check make up a unique part of North Central life. The A. S. T. P. is gone but not forgotten.

How this rich farm land fits into the picture of tomorrow

Located in the heart of the most productive agricultural section in America, this area of Northern Illinois is noted for its farming diversification.

Here are thousands of rich dairy farms that supply the great Chicago milk shed. Here are poultry farms that have grown in size and number to help meet America's wartime needs. Here, too, are farmlands where hogs, cattle and sheep thrive...where grain and produce grow in abundance.

In addition to the advantages nature bestowed, this agricultural region has many favorable economic factors. It is the largest packing center and the greatest grain and livestock market in the world. It is the hub of the nation's transportation and a financial capital. Here are electric power plants of vast capacity for extending the benefits of electricity to the farmer and for processing agricultural products.

Yes, Chicago and Northern Illinois is a rich agricultural center, today. It is tomorrow's Land of Opportunity, not only for the farmer, but for the worker and the industrialist as well.

In Memoriam

Carl Reich is the first of North Central's Enlisted Reserve Corp men who left school in February, 1943, to lose his life in combat overseas. North Central received word of his fatal injury in Italy in January, 1944. His class (the class of '46), the entire student body and faculty extend their sincerest sympathy to his parents in Maywood, Illinois.

Carl's smile is immortal. The realities of war cannot erase it from our minds, it lives on. His cheerful personality, witty remarks, and good sportsmanship added much to North Central. We shall not forget that smile or his personality. We shall not forget the sacrifice he has made for us.

Here is the final page of another Spectrum. But, there is no finis or farewell. This little volume is just the beginning of a theme about life at school. It only begins to say what college means to those of us who have been here this year and to N.C.C.'s men in service. This book is not finished for you will "take it from here" and add much. It is your proof that college is a fine adventure that you Can take with you through life.
